

Westmoor Pool Plan Pared to Essentials

Westmoor High School once again is on its way to obtaining a pool. However, this time the plan has been trimmed down to the bare necessities.

In its regular meeting Tuesday evening, the Jefferson Union High School District Board of Trustees approved a motion by trustee Albert Teglia to give clearance to Kirker, Chapman and Associates civil engineers to go ahead with the redrawing of the pool plans, return to the Westmoor High School Swimming Pool Committee with resions, and then go out to bid.

The progress on pool construction hit a snag last month when the three submitted bids for the $636,000 project all were in the $900,000 category. The board subsequently rejected the three bids and returned to the initial planning stages to make some changes in the pool plans.

The Westmoor High School pool committee met June 1 to discuss the discrepancies between bids and the district's estimate. In addition, they formulated a list of possible reductions bringing the cost figure down to $735,000 from the lowest bidder's price of $935,000. Chapman explained at that meeting that the district estimate was off due to spiral of inflation in industry and the lower amount of bids submitted than were anticipated.

The deletions recommended by the committee at the meeting included modification of the covered ramp to the pool area eliminating heating in the corridor area saving $40,000. Also cited was elimination of the spectator area on the slope saving $30,000; deletion of the therapeutic room and whirlpool saving $30,000; and elimination of two staff rest rooms and staff room also saving $30,000.

A variety of smaller deletions and changes also were recommended. Chapman has said that he could have a precise cost estimate in two weeks. Attending the committee meeting were Daly City Mayor Anthony Giannina, trustee Albert Guglia, and Assistant Superintendent Educational Services Floyd Gonnella in addition to the committee members.

Gonnella emphasized Tuesday evening that the district has no desire to go above the $700,000 figure for the pool.

Trustee Ruth Boudinot questioned what effect the deletions will have on the quality of the pool.

"I want to know if some things are being cut out that can be put in later, and if we are changing the value of the future use and value of the pool," she asked.

Superintendent Ed Morgan said that basically the changes will not have an extensive negative effect on the pool and that most of the things being deleted could not be added later such as restrooms. However, some including bleachers could be put in at a later date.

Trustee Teglia, who attended the committee meeting, said that the building will basically be the same. Modifications to be made will still meet the building code but will just bring cost down a little.

"Chapman has agreed to prepare the redesign of the project at no cost in order to come within the original $700,000 target area in accordance with his contract.

Mayor Giannina stated the city council's position would be to have specifications revised to fit the original figure rather than settle for the higher bids.

The board must go out or bid again rather than negotiate with the lowest bidder. Gonnella said that school district change orders are limited to 10 per cent of the project cost and must be performed only during the course of construction.

Shared Funds Sought in D.C.

For the second time this year Daly City city councilmen are being forced into playing Solomon concerning allocation of federal revenue sharing funds.

Monday night the council heard nine persons, representing a variety of city and community agencies, ask for $878,332 in funds for projects ranging from health improvements at the Guadalupe Health Clinic to a bomb disposal trailer for police.

Daly City's semi-annual share of the Federal money pie is only $208,600, according to city manager David Rowe.

Sam Chandler, the city's librarian, asked for $30,000 for new programs dealing with the blind, shut-ins and similar special projects.

Chandler, in his plea for funding of the programs said some funds would continue to come in from HUD for these special projects, but that agency had notified recipients monies would be cut off in April 1974.

Meanwhile, Chandler noted the city was "on the threshold of new services" and the nominal funding from revenue sharing would best benefit a large segment of the local population.

The council listened for more than an hour as some of their own staff members trooped before them to ask for a part of the funds.

Public Works asked for more than $300,000 to fund sewer pipelines, plant trees, study traffic

5 SSF Students Overcome In Noontime Grass Fire

Five students from Serra Vista School in South San Francisco were rushed to hospitals for treatment yesterday when they were apparently overcome by smoke inhalation from a lunchtime grass fire.

The children appeared to have been trying to extinguish the fire which enveloped a field of heavy dry growth next to the playground of the school which overlooks Junipero Serra Boulevard, according to firemen.

Three 11-year-olds were rushed to Mary's Help Hospital: Mike Lia, 224 Wicklow Drive; David Romani, 250 Wicklow Drive, and Susan Zelms, 226 Dundee Drive. Two 12-year-olds were sent to Kaiser Hospital: John Murray, 223 Wicklow Drive, and Robert Rios, 203 Norwalk Drive.

$42,000 Damage

Four Flee D.C. House Fire

An early morning fire swept through a Daly City home Monday, driving the four occupants into the street clad in night clothes and causing some $42,000 damage to the structure.

The speed in which the blaze spread through the Howard Poblitz home at 95 Fairlawn Avenue amazed fire officials.

It was believed the fire started in a family room furnace closet and raced along wood paneling used in the ground level room.

Mrs. Virginia Poblitz and daughter, Cindy, 6, and son Roy, 18, were in bed when the fire was discovered by another son, Randy, 17, who was taking a shower in an upstairs bathroom when he smelled smoke. Slipping on a pair of trousers, Randy started into the basement room and saw flames and smoke pouring up the stairs, he told investigators.

After alerting his family, the youth ran to a nearby street alarm box and summoned aid.

When fire equipment arrived, the fire had already broken through the back walls and a dense pall of smoke hung over the ground, Battalion Chief John Roy said.

Howard Poblitz said he left for work shortly after 7 a.m., and there was no trace of a fire at that time.

The first alarm came into the main station at 7:21 a.m.

Within minutes the entire house was involved in fire, witnesses said.

A home at 97 Fairlawn, only a few doors away from City Councilman Bernard J. Lyett's home at 100 Fairlawn, threatened for a time to erupt into flame. However, streams of water were played on the walls and the structure sustained only minor damage, according to Roy.

Howard Poblitz said he left for work shortly after 7 a.m., and there was no trace of a fire at that time.

The first alarm came into the main station at 7:21 a.m.

Within minutes the entire house was involved in fire, witnesses said.

Commission members refused to hear a formal appeal by Daly City that the commission reconsider their previous decision to place the mountain in Brisbane's sphere of influence.

The commission's previous decision had prompted Daly City Mayor Anthony Giannina to point out that LAFCO had undertaken far more responsibility concerning the mountain's development than allowed by law.

Daly City Attorney Albert Polonsky had said that the city's formal appeal might lay a foundation for a possible suit on the issue.

Commission members refused to discuss the Daly City appeal during their Friday meeting because commission members said they had not had enough time to review the formal appeal.

Commission members indicated however, that they will hear the Daly City appeal at a later date.

After refusing to hear the appeal on the sphere of influence for the mountain, LAFCO commissioners did agree to discuss the proposed formation of a county service area for the mountain area to provide interim services for the area prior to proposed annexation to the City of Brisbane.

That matter also drew criticism from Daly City officials.

"The logic just isn't there," said Daly City Manager David Rowe, who said if the commission delayed a hearing on Daly City's appeal for control of the mountain, they should also delay a hearing on providing interim services for San Bruno Mountain.

Brisbane City Manager Eugene Aiello then took the floor, however, and said Brisbane presently provides police and fire services for most of the mountain. Aiello also noted that the present assessed value of Brisbane is $17 million and said that amount would double as soon as his city annexes the Crocker Industrial Park.

"We contend it is all the same," said Rowe, referring for the two issues.

Once again, however, the commission refused to agree with Daly City's contention.

Commission members subsequently approved the proposal for the formation of a county service area on the mountain, excluding some portions of the 3,600-acre land parcel which are intended for a regional park and the Crocker Industrial Park.

The approved commission proposal will subsequently be recommended to the County Board of Supervisors.

Daly City Manager Rowe had questioned the approval of the service area as well as the financial ability of Brisbane to eventually take over the public services on the mountain.

Brisbane City Manager Eugene Aiello then took the floor, however, and said Brisbane presently provides police and fire services for most of the mountain.

Aiello also noted that the present assessed value of Brisbane is $17 million and said that amount would double as soon as his city annexes the Crocker Industrial Park.

DC Neighbors Prevent Serious Fire

Fire Department officials are today crediting two apartment house occupants with preventing what might have been a tragic fire Sunday afternoon.

Alvin Jackson, of 655 Villa St., Apt. 4, and Brady Johnson Jr., of 650 Villa St., Apt. 4, smelled smoke coming from another apartment occupied by Mrs. Ward at 655 Villa St. about 3:30 p.m.

When no one answered their knock, the pair went to the rear of the building and peered inside.

They saw fire coming from a table in the living room and decided to force their way inside the apartment.

Once inside they quickly extinguished the blaze.

Battalion Chief John Roy said, "It could have been a whole lot worse had those two men not been on the scene."

Damage was estimated at $1,000.

San Bruno Asks Probe Of Mailer

An official complaint will be filed with postal authorities by the city of San Bruno asking that an investigation be made of the circumstances surrounding the Citizens for Balanced Community Growth's use of the city clerk's office as a return address for an anti-petition drive mailer last week.

Terming it political in nature, the council on a 4-1 vote acceded to an investigation request made by Terri Rasmussen, one of three leaders of a petition drive opposing recent approval of two 13-story office buildings.

Mrs. Rasmussen had asked that the council investigate any possible irregularities, but the council said it was more in the jurisdiction of the postal department.

The request came about after the Citizens for Balanced Community Growth sent out the mailer, using the city clerk's office for a return address.

Lyman Johnston, attorney with the Postal Service regional office in San Francisco, told The Times last week that a person holding a "no postage stamp necessary" first class permit may not use someone else's address for the return mail.

Councilman Tony Governale voted against the proposal. "I happen to believe in the integrity of the people involved," he said. "They assured me that it was a mistake, and that the intent was not to mislead the pub-

JESD Fund Concern

Dramatic Suspension Increase

By FRANK LAPIERRE

There has been a dramatic increase in student suspensions in the Jefferson Elementary School District during the current school year, and some trustees fear it may have an adverse effect on state financing.

Some state funding is based on the Average Daily Attendance (ADA) of the student population within the district's 23 schools. Suspensions affect this.

Trustee Dorothy Adams said students that are being suspended "perhaps need schooling more than the other children" and asked that the practice be sharply scrutinized.

She zeroed in on George Washington School as an example of suspensions "getting out of hand," she explained.

In the 1971-72 school year, three students out of a population of some 374 children attending the trouble-plagued school were suspended for one reason or another. Often the same child is suspended.

During the 1972-73 school year, to date, there have been 43 suspensions at the school.

The largest school population within the JESD is the Franklin D. Roosevelt School with 654 children. Last year there were 16 students, while this year there have been 26 suspensions.

Second largest school, Christopher Columbus (559 children) stayed the same as last year with nine students suspended for infractions of school policies.

Superintendent Frank Greenwood thinks suspensions, rather than making "heroes" out of those expelled from classes, is a way of "forcing parents into exercising their responsibilities."

Mrs. Adams had asked for a breakdown of suspensions following complaints from some parents in the district on the subject.

Both Colma Intermediate and Benjamin Franklin schools likewise showed sharp increases in suspensions.

Fernando Rivera, with a student population of 433 intermediate grade students, declined from 45 last year to 35 for the current year.

But Ben Franklin jumped to 228 suspensions from 146 last year among its student body of 876 children.

Colma school has 720 students enrolled. Of this number, 246 were suspended this year and 173 last year.

The over-all total of suspensions at all schools last year was 432.

This year's figure has already topped 644.

It was also noted in the report that two schools — M. Pauline Brown and Colma Elementary — did not have suspension records available for the 1971-72 school year.

The council, however, will not act on the petition until a "certificate of sufficiency" is presented, possibly at their next council session.

D.C. Council Pay Raise Due

The city council of Daly City Monday routinely heard the first reading of Ordinance 764, which amends Chapter 2, Article 3, Section 2-2.1 of the City Code.

In other words, the council took the first step toward giving itself a pay raise — the first since 1965 when a new state law authorized a pay hike based on city population.

Councilmen in Daly City presently receive $250 per month.

The new ordinance approves a five per cent increase which would fatten their monthly paychecks by $12.50.

lic to indicate the city would pay the postage.

"To pursue this is no more than to build a political issue and embarrass those who support Bayhill. And I believe totally and completely that this is designed for that purpose," said Governale.

"I, too, believe it's politically motivated," said Councilman George Corey. "But that doesn't change the fact that (the investigation) ought to be made. I have the greatest faith and integrity in those involved and have no fears or qualms but that the postal authorities will find that it was an honest mistake."

"To fail to have it investigated would be unfair to the city," said Corey, who suggested that if there were any postal irregularities it might be through postal employee Dick Griffith.

"Mr. Griffith read one of the brochures before it was set for mailing and informed somebody he had received that permission," charged Corey.

Griffith, a recalled San Bruno councilman, responded that any postal employee may pick up mail addressed to himself with the permission of his supervisor.

With that, the brickbats from those on both sides of the by now forgotten issue of the two high-rises, were cutting the air.

Councilman John Barnard said that if a letter of apology was given to the city on June 4, there would have been time to remove the mailers from the post office.

Mayor Marge Kozkowski said the council was not the "beating agency" after someone "feeds information" to the press." She said 60 cards were received at city hall Monday — paid for by the anti-petition committee.

Councilman Neil Christal charged both the postmaster and the Chamber of Commerce with using mailing lists "for political purposes." He made the motion for investigation, seconded by Barnard.

Hank Siddall, identifying himself as a director of the Chamber of Commerce, said that a story on the possible postal violation that appeared in The Times and identified Larry Mobley, the one who signed for the return mail permit, as president-elect of the Chamber of Commerce "left the impression with many people that the chamber was backing or paying for the permit."

"He (Mobley) was acting as a private citizen," said Siddall.

Mobley, an insurance executive and civic and community leader who wears many hats, was in the audience but declined to speak on the issue.

Later, outside the council chambers, he reiterated that his involvement was that of "a private citizen" and as secretary of the Citizens for Balanced Community Growth.

Ceiling Caves In On Millbrae Man

The ceiling apparently literally caved in on Gerald K. Ryan, about 9 a.m. Saturday.

Two Hurt in SSF Crashes

Two injury accidents were reported in South San Francisco over the weekend.

Donald Pizziconi, 21, 1071 Sunnyside Drive, South San Francisco, was injured Saturday night when he was making a right turn from Del Paso Drive onto Alta Loma Drive. He swerved to avoid hitting an approaching car, lost control, and struck a parked car, which was pushed into another parked car.

Pizziconi was taken to Redwood City Kaiser Hospital where he spent the night in the intensive care unit, but was released the next day, according to hospital aides.

Allen Brainard, 31, 9 Wilms Avenue, South San Francisco, was injured in an accident on El Camino Real just north of Orange Avenue, Friday night, police said today. He was in process of changing lanes when his car struck the rear of the car of Jerry Holter, 213 Boardwalk, San Bruno. Brainard was thrown from his car. He was rushed to South San Francisco Kaiser Hospital where he was treated for what police called "a severe wound."

Ryan was taken to Peninsula Hospital for emergency treatment and then transferred to the new Veterans' Administration Medical Center in Palo Alto.

Ryan called The Times to report that he was injured about the head, neck, and back. X-rays had been taken and he said he expects to be released sometime today.

Four Youths Injured as Auto Flips

Four South San Francisco teen-age boys escaped with comparatively minor injuries about 10:30 a.m., Sunday when their car plunged off Juniper-Serra Freeway in Los Altos, flipped end-over-end, turned over in the air and landed on its wheels, the highway patrol reports.

The driver, Dan L. Lovato, 16, of 154 Escanay Avenue, South San Francisco, told Highway Patrolman Ken Parnell that the southbound car began to fishtail after the right rear tire blew out about a half-mile north of Foothill Boulevard.

Parnell said the car swerved to the west shoulder on the end of a cut which acted like a ramp and launched the car into the air. The vehicle landed below on Seminary Drive.

Lovato and his passengers, Kevin E. Thickstun, 16, of 51 Duval Drive; John Rico, 15, of 351 Alta Mont., and like Kelly, 17, of 609 Terresa Drive, all were taken to Kaiser Hospital, Santa Clara, for treatment of multiple cuts and abrasions. Kelly also suffered a broken finger.

Not Guilty Plea in S.S.F. Drug Case

An 18-year-old Colma youth pleaded innocent to charges of armed robbery and possession of narcotics paraphernalia in municipal court, in South San Francisco by June 5.

South San Francisco police had arrested Gordon Green, 487 D Street, Colma, and a 16-year-old Daly City companion, Monday, alleging that they were fleeing the scene of a purse-snatching.

According to police, the victim, Annette Steinhagen, 61, 169 Northwood Drive, was walking along the 100 block of El Camino Real when a youth ran up from behind her, grabbed her purse and kept running, leaping into a car which sped down Spruce Avenue.

Police Officers Jim Cooper and Paul Zierner were in a patrol car at the Crown-Zellerbach Paper Co. when they saw the car speed by. They gave chase, stopping it on Spruce and Railroad Avenues. As they started to write out a speeding citation, witnesses drove up and told them about the purse-snatching, according to police.

The 16-year-old youth was taken to Hillcrest Juvenile Hall. Green was arraigned in Municipal Court, pleaded innocent and was given a June 29 date for his preliminary examination. He is being held in lieu of $100 bail.

Officers say they recovered the purse, containing $20, plus credit cards.

Rental Stations Hit

Pacifica planning commissioners do not like service stations renting trucks and trailers — at least for the bulk of stations located in neighborhood commercial (C-1) zones.

Commissioners made this feeling evident in a 6-1 vote at a hearing held Monday night.

Events leading up to the hearing began when city authorities notified three service stations to cut out their rental business. They refused, and the city attorney filed abatement actions. Meanwhile, the U-Haul Company asked that Pacifica's municipal code be amended to allow storage and rental of trucks and trailers in those service stations located in C-1 districts.

Arguing their case Monday were representatives both of U-Haul and of Ryder Truck Rentals, as a group of service station operators looked on. Chamber of Commerce Manager Tom Sawyer also spoke in favor of the amendment.

Miller recommended denial on the basis that most such service stations had no room to spare for storage of trucks and trailers. In addition, because it is all outdoor storage, the trucks and trailers present an unsightly appearance for the neighborhood. Even campers and other recreational vehicles, he pointed out, must be screened off.

Lyon Johnston, attorney with the Postal Service Regional office in San Francisco, said that a person holding a "no postage stamp necessary" first class permit may not use someone else's address for the return mail.

He added, however, that there is no punitive action set forth by the U.S. Postal Service for such violation, as long as someone elect of the city's Chamber of Commerce, according to Postmaster Don Risso.

Things mushroomed when it was discovered that the postcard addressed to the city clerk also showed five soon-to-be-controversial words: "postage will be paid by." It is approved to residents that the city was not only sanctioning, but soliciting the removal of signatures from the petitions, which were filed Wednesday.

The filing incidentally, made the mailer effort a moot point, since once petitions have been filed, names cannot be removed.

He said that the city clerk could file a complaint with the local post office charging violation of the postal procedure and ask that it be corrected.

But this also would be a postal regulation violation, according to Johnston, who admitted to being somewhat intrigued by the unraveling complexities he called "unforgivably goofed up."

Johnston said there are "all sorts of informal remedies" and that "the main thing we (the Postal Service) are interested in is who is going to pay the ten cents."

"We are not interested in disputes, only in seeing that the mail gets delivered and we get the proper fees," he said.

It's not likely the city will file any complaints.

Risso said Hons' group would deposit money with the post office to cover the return postage on any cards sent back. "And we're going to deliver these to city hall," he said.

Psychiatric Evaluation

Edward W. Curtis, 19-year-old South San Francisco resident who court officials say tossed a firebomb inside an office at Parkway Junior High School in South San Francisco, causing $50,000 damage, has been ordered to undergo a 90-day psychiatric and medical evaluation at the state prison's Vacaville facility.

Curtis had pleaded "no contest" to a charge of felony arson in relationship with the fire, which destroyed the vice principal's office and heavily damaged

Probation officer R. E. Manthey, in his report to Judge Ragan last week, recommended that Curtis be sentenced to prison. "He's an extreme danger to the safety of the community," Manthey said.

Escaped Suspect Surrenders Quietly

Frederick Louis Cox, a 21-year-old California Youth Authority parolee wanted in connection with the death of his female parole officer was arrested without a struggle at a downtown San Francisco bus station Friday noon.

Cox had successfully evaded a police dragnet set for him at the Daly City home of a friend, by nimbly jumping out an apartment house window, running across several rooftops and vanishing into the brush-covered foothills of San Bruno Mountain less than eight hours before.

The suspected slayer of Greta Modecke, 37, a CYA employee at the Los Gaiatos school for youth near Santa Rosa, was described as "armed and dangerous," but the joint San Francisco-Daly City stakeout team picked up the youth without incident after receiving an anonymous tip.

His car was found parked earlier in front of the apartment building at 385 Peoria Street, staying with a friend at the Peoria Street address.

When police arrived at the apartment, they were confronted by Alfred Smith, 25, later identified as a suspected felon and interfering with police after a struggle ensued.

It was not until after police had subdued Smith did they realize he was not the man they were after.

Mrs. Modecke's body was found hogtied, gagged and

The successful fight of Police Officer Keith Fazackerley to be reinstated by the South San Francisco Police Department was hailed Thursday by Thomas Bocci as giving "hope to all municipal employees that they do have security in their jobs."

Bocci was the attorney who represented Fazackerley in his successful five-month fight. The fight culminated with the decision Wednesday night by the South San Francisco Personnel Board reinstating Fazackerley, on three grounds:

1. The city failed to sustain its case regarding inefficiency, unfitness for duty, incompetence and acts of misconduct to a degree where discharge was warranted.

2. The system used by the Police Department to evaluate its personnel is vague and uncertain and does not result in a fair and equitable application of its rules.

3. According to the police department's own records, Fazackerley was informed on July 26, 1972, that he must show marked improvement in his performance within six months or be fired. According to the records, he did show such improvement, but was still fired. Bocci commented that he should report negative incidents could not help but believe that and how to take positive action the hearing officers found abso-

Still No Pacifica Budget

Pacifica's city council has finished its two-month series of budget sessions—and still has not adopted a new budget for 1973-74.

They adjourned their "final" budget session last week, at which they were calendarized to adopt a budget, with no major action.

"There's no hurry—we don't have any money anyway," one councilman joked.

Without any final decisions on the total amount of the budget, the councilmen decided that petitioning the city for floor protection.

In addition, the council agreed to reimburse Mario Torrigino for half the expense, $1066, of increasing the tax-rate, and only a few neighborhoods lacking such a program, $3000 for cleaning out the Linda Mar and Anza storm drain stations, and to replace $2500 to rebuild the Linda

Mar storm drain which they had previously cut. The latter requests came from some 150 Linda Mar area residents largely from single family homes, as well as a few new apartment houses, plus reasonable assessments. A clamp was put on any increases in most city departments, budget increase requests were rejected, and in some cases, such as planning, a decrease is actually recommended in the budget.

Among the few increases being recommended by Thompson is one more secretarial worker for his staff, and a worker to maintain the new 1050-foot bridge, John Pratt gave his pitch for ties.

Borba Seeks Injunction On Building

South San Francisco City Councilman William Borba again demanded last week that an injunction be issued to halt all building in the Colma Creek Watershed area. This would include the Serramonte portion of Daly City, Colma and northern San Bruno, including Tanforan Park.

He also demanded that each of the four cities — including South San Francisco — pay 25 per cent of the cost of the Colma Creek flood control project. The county engineer has recommended that South San Francisco taxpayers pay 68 per cent of the cost.

In a statement he made Tuesday, he warned that South San Franciscans may expect a "huge tax rise for this project if the . . . amendment that is being proposed by . . . Arlen Gregorio (is adopted)."

This amendment would increase the maximum allowable for the Colma Flood Control District from three cents to 48 cents, under a "zone of benefit" plan.

City Attorney John Noonan explained to Borba that he has requested no injunction because he felt that it was more important to get some action going on flood control.

None of the other councilmen voiced support for Borba's proposal, which he had first made last July.

S.S.F. Artist Is Arrested

A 21-year-old artist is being held on $10,000 bond by South San Francisco police, pending his court appearance on a long series of charges.

According to police, he gave his name as both Michael O'Neil and Michael Schrire, checking in at the Royal Inn, on South Airport Boulevard in So. San Francisco under the name on a stolen credit card belonging to David Bolton. He gave addresses both in Santa Cruz and San Francisco, police said.

Police add that they found that his vehicle that he used in arriving at the hotel was stolen. In his room, they found a hypodermic kit. In addition, the television set in the room was missing.

Police were alerted that something was wrong when the maid found the television set gone, and the man in bed. He was charged with car theft, conspiracy, defrauding an innkeeper, burglary, possession of stolen property and possession of narcotics paraphernalia.

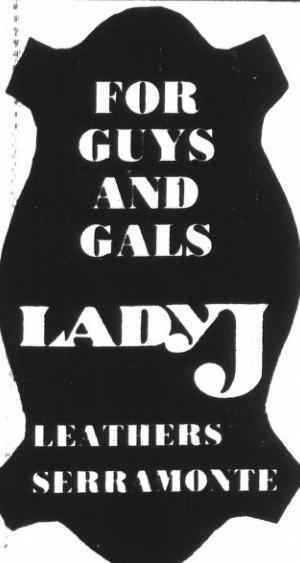

Pacifica Demos Rap Remap Plan

Pacifica Democrats voted unanimously recently to oppose the current gerrymander of Pacifica that would separate most of Pacifica from San Mateo County's 27th Assembly District and 12th Senate District and place this heavily Democratic area in San Francisco districts.

The membership instructed Chairman Joseph Fulford to communicate these feelings to the legislative leaders involved and to the press.

Club members indicated that, while they would fight to resist the redistricting, they will make it clear to the San Francisco legislators involved that if the redistricting does become final they will demand a "fair shake" from them in representing Pacifica's interests.

Chairman Fulford urged Pacificans to "deluge the Governor's office with demands for a veto."

Judge Denies Trial Shift

Attorneys for three San Francisco youths — who are accused of running down four other youths on a Daly City street — Thursday asked San Mateo Superior Court Judge Frank Pionetto for a change of venue for the upcoming trial. The judge denied the request after deliberation.

One Daly City youth, Kerry McDowell, age 19, died in the street assault while three of his companions were critically wounded in the April 1 attack.

Attorneys for the San Francisco youths, who are charged with murder, maintain the defendants cannot receive a fair trial in San Mateo County.

Defense Attorney Phrasel Shelton told the court that local newspaper accounts depicted the incident as a "San Francisco gang coming into San Mateo County, creating havoc and violence."

Shelton said the defendants should be tried elsewhere "in view of this kind of publicity." Other defense attorneys said the newspaper publicity elevated the shoot out "above the level of a typical run-of-the-mill assault."

Prosecuting Deputy District Attorney James Fox countered that the shootings were not typical street corner assault.

"That's not what it was," he said, stating he does not feel that "there has been excessive publicity on this."

The three San Francisco youths charged with murder are Edwin J. Olmos, 20; Ronald Manuel de la Rosa, 20, and Mark Williams Garcia, 18.

Daly City Appeals to LAFCO for New Bid on San Bruno Mountain

By FRANK LAPIERRE

If San Bruno Mountain won't come to Daly City, Daly City must go to the mountain, to paraphrase an old proverb.

This is in essence what Daly City's chief administrator, David Rowe, said yesterday shortly after filing a formal appeal with the Local Agency Formation Commission (LAFCO) for reconsideration of their February decision to place the huge (3,600 acre) block of undeveloped land in Brisbane's sphere of influence.

Daly City has see-sawed back

and forth on whether they wanted the mountain for several years.

The City Fathers first indicated they wanted to have San Bruno.

Next these officials formally notified LAFCO they had no desire for the mountain.

Finally, shortly before the February hearings held in the Daly City city hall, LAFCO dropped the other shoe and awarded the mountain, in a split 3-2 vote, to Brisbane.

The two dissenters in the decision wanted no development at all on the mountain.

Why had Daly City not argued harder for possession of the mountain during public hearings? Why did they wait until after LAFCO had formally adopted a resolution at its May 2 meeting in Redwood City giving the mountain to Brisbane?

"Because all the evidence pointed toward Daly City getting the mountain," Rowe replied.

Daly City's action in filing the formal appeal, which will be heard by LAFCO during that agency's session in Redwood City Friday, is seen as a move by city attorney Albert Polonsky to lay a foundation for a possible suit on the issue later.

Scouts Win

Fun Trip

As Scouting goes into summer six boys from San Mateo County have been awarded a free trip to Disneyland. Each boy represents the top seller of Scout-O-Rama tickets.

The boys will fly to Los Angeles on June 27, to spend the day at Disneyland and will return home that evening. The boys who have been awarded a trip to Disneyland are: Gilbert Winslow, Pack 294, South San Francisco; Craig Walling, Pack 136, Pacifica; Gilbert Valverde, Pack 28, Burlingame; Robbie Beper, Pack 13; San Mateo; Ricky Brooker, Pack 15, Redwood City; Mark Spurlock, Pack 222, Menlo Park.

Polonsky said he "hopes it will not go that far," but said he was prepared to "go a different way if necessary" in answer to questions of impending legal action.

Mayor Anthony Giannona pointed out that LAFCO has undertaken far more responsibility concerning the mountain's development than allowed by law.

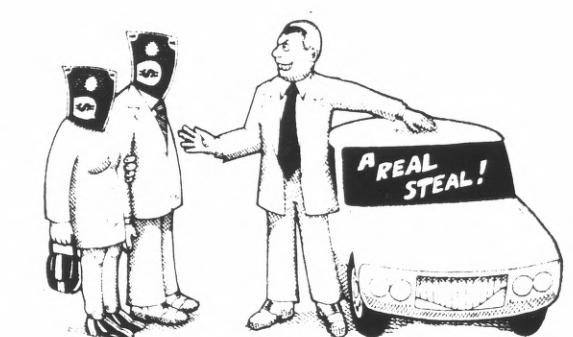

Between the February decision and the May session, LAFCO's executive director, B. Sherman Coffman, has slipped other language into the general service area proposal, Rowe charges.

It had been understood that once LAFCO had made their decision on the sphere of influence and on formation of a General Services Area for the mountain, the county would take over planning, and subsequently turn the plans over to Brisbane.

But Coffman, in a memo to LAFCO's members dated June 1, 1973, now asks that the county take over, in addition to planning duties, provision of urban services.

This would call for the county to plan, furnish fire, police and related services, and to levy taxes within the district to pay for these services.

It would, in reality, set up another "Foster City" type of operation.

Allied Health Careers

Pilot Project at Hospital

Allied Health Careers, an innovative program for high school students, is concluding a successful year this month at Mary's Help Hospital in Daly City.

"But we'll be back in force next September," states Mrs. Nancy Kraemer, coordinator of the program for Serramonte High School, Daly City.

Allied Health Careers is a Jefferson Union High School District pilot project involving 25 Serramonte students who have expressed interest in pursuing a medical career. The goals of the program are to help students make informed occupational choices, and to teach the students to be wise consumers of health services.

THE PROGRAM is conducted as part of a Medical Careers class at Serramonte, taught by Mrs. Kraemer who is also the school nurse. Students participate in the program voluntarily, and receive five units for each semester of involvement.

Mrs. Kraemer said that when the students first came to Mary's Help last October, they were met enthusiastically by hospital employees. The students spent the first semester familiarizing themselves with Mary's Help and with the various career opportunities available to them in a hospital.

Tours were given of between 25 and 30 departments in the hospital, where department heads and staff members explained the functions of the individual areas. The students learned typical job tasks, salary ranges and the educational and training requirements for many of the jobs in a hospital. In many cases, students were learning about jobs which they never knew existed before, according to Mrs. Kramer.

LAST JANUARY, the students began the second semester of the program by selecting four departments that especially interested them and then were assigned to these departments on a rotating basis. The students spent four weeks working in one department and then rotated to their next chosen area in the hospital. During the last four weeks of the semester, the students were allowed either to return to their favorite department or to choose a new department in which they would work.

"With this program, we hope either to give the students entry level skills for non-professional jobs or to interest the students in attending college in preparation for a professional career," she explained.

AN EQUAL NUMBER of male and female students were chosen for the Allied Health Careers program. These students are representative of the racial makeup of Serramonte High School, which in turn is representative of the ethnic balance in the surrounding community.

"One hundred students applied for the program last October," says Mrs. Kraemer, "and 150 students have already asked to be included in the program next year."

Response to the program from the participating departments at Mary's Help has also been excellent, according to Mrs. Kraemer. A recent survey showed that every department which responded expressed interest in having the program continue next year.

In selecting students who are to participate in the program, interest in a medical career and motivation are equally as important as grades, according to Mrs. Kraemer. "As a matter of fact," she continued, "most students involved in the program receive average grades, and quite a few of them aren't college oriented."

"We also hope to extend the program to other health care facilities where the students can learn about non-hospital career opportunities," she explained.

Mrs. Kraemer emphasized that the students choose the type of facilities in which they wish to work. "When a student expresses an interest in any area related to health care," she said, "it is my duty to start looking for a facility that will accept the students."

Mrs. Kraemer says that she hasn't had any difficulty locating places willing to take the students. "Wherever I have gone to ask if students could come to learn, I have always been met with enthusiasm and willingness to cooperate."

Bruno Planners OK Tract Map

When San Bruno planning commissioners last week approved a tentative tract map and grading permit for Lot E, Portola Highlands, residents of that area chalked up a victory.

The applicant was requesting a 10-unit single family subdivision instead of some form of multiple use that had been sought and fought several times in the past. The latest was a proposal for townhouses.

A spokesman for the residents said simply, "We're really thrilled with the plans. We think it (the single family dwellings) will be a handsome addition to our area."

The property set for development is approximately five acres at the intersection of Monterey Drive and Sneath Lane.

Commissioner James Hensel, who is remaining on the commission until the council appoints a replacement, cast a negative vote. He said the result will be "10 houses on stilts."

The commissioners, on a 4-3 split vote, also asked that the applicant — Frahm, Edler and Cannos, Redwood City — plant approximately 50 trees "size not stipulated" on an existing slope.

"After-the-fact, that's acceptable," said Charles Trifeletti, representing the owners.

There were a dozen other conditions tacked onto the approval.

Plan Faces A Hearing

Pacifica's Capital Improvement Committee — faced with setting priorities for some $26 million worth of needed improvements — conducted its final scheduled hearing Tuesday at the Terra Nova cafeteria.

Study sessions starts 7 p.m., followed by the 8 p.m. meeting. The committee is headed by former mayor Nick Gust. The committee must have its final report to the City Council by June 30.

At their hearing Wednesday night, the committee heard Dick Burton describe projects of the Park, Beaches and Recreation Department, which he directs, and City Manager David Thompson describe the proposal for a $3 million community center. Half of the cost of the center would be the corporation yard to serve almost all city departments.

Contrary to previous meetings, where the committee labeled each project A, B, C and D (essential, needed, desirable and unneeded), the committee members Wednesday night gave no priorities. Gust merely asked them to think over the projects until the final meeting.

Yesterday, the committee plans to reevaluate and recalculate the priorities of the various projects. Only about a million dollars in federal revenue sharing funds appear to be specifically earmarked for the projects. However, last week, committee members expressed wonder at why such projects as the $7 million sewer treatment facilities — expected to be financed largely from federal and state sources, as well as an already approved bond issue — were even on the list.

FATHER'S DAY JUNE 17TH

News About ...Cub, Boy Scouts

SCOUTING'S HIGHEST AWARD, Eagle Scout, is presented to Paul Ng of San Bruno's Explorer Post 72 by Scoutmaster Bob Carlsen and Northern District Scout Executive Marlin Strong. More than 100 Scouts, relatives and friends attended the Court of Honor dinner at which the Eagle Scout presentation was made. Paul, a junior at Crestmoor High School, works part time, yet still finds time for scouting. After graduation from high school he plans to attend college to study mechanical engineering. Explorer Post and Scout Troop 72 meet at 7:30 p.m. Tuesdays at the Marine Reserve Building in Tanforan Navy Base.

Under the direction of John T. Montgomery, vice president, San Mateo County Council, Wood Badge scoutmaster, the San Mateo County Council is sponsoring a Wood Badge course until June 16.

The course is being held at the Council's local long term camp, Cutter Scout Reservation, Boulder Creek. This course involves Scout leaders from the entire Bay Area.

Wood Badge was originally presented by Baden-Powell as a means of strengthening and preserving the Scout movement in each country throughout the world. Its object is to demonstrate in as practical way as possible the aims and methods of Scouting and to develop Scout spirit through a program of activities.

Wood Badge courses in this country are conducted by the Boy Scouts of America to provide an advanced type of leadership development for scoutmasters, assistant scoutmasters, troop committee members, commissioners, and other Scouting.

The practical part is an eight-day outdoor experience consisting of living Scouting. Those participating are exposed to the application of leadership and Scouting skills as they are applied in the development of both men and boys.

For the application period, a minimum of six months must elapse between the practical experience and final certification. During this period, the Scouter applies what he learned and is evaluated on his performance.

Recognition for the successful completion of Wood Badge consists of a parchment certificate, the distinctive Wood Badge neckerchief, and the Wood Badge two wooden beads worn on a thong around the neck.

This badge is recognized around the world as a symbol of practical training and leadership experience.

cifica; John Hart, San Mateo; Wednesday, June 13, 1973

David High, Pacifica; Patrick Kelly, San Bruno; James Malatesta, San Bruno; Tony Money, Belmont; Bill Proctor, Colma; Lloyd Sears, San Bruno; Gary Sekman, Belmont; Joseph Sigillo, South San Francisco; Warren Storkman, Palo Alto; John Taylor, San Mateo.

ago as part of the School Night to Join Scouting campaign was previously active in the Klamath Falls, Oregon, area.

Mr. Montgomery was also announced as the scoutmaster for a "wood badge" course set for June 9-16 at Camp Cutter Scout Reservation, with participation from several area councils.

Alvin J. Schwarzbach, membership chairman of the Council and a Daly City resident lead off the membership discussion among the members of the Executive Board. The annual meeting was presided over by Council President Albert J. Horn with Ed Johnson introducing newly-elected Board members and Mike Bredenbeck presenting the revision of the by-laws and articles of incorporation.

TROOP 248 of the Boy Scouts of America held a Court of Honor on Wednesday, May 30, 1973. Before an audience of parents and friends, four scouts were promoted in rank: to Second Class Scout, Donald Piiwaa; to Tenderfoot Scout, Elias Salazar, Jr.; and to Scout rank, Kevin Williams and Donald Fisher.

Merit badges were awarded to Greg Schoepp, Elias Salazar, John Schoolcraft and Keith Gross. Lowell Hart received a three year service pin, and Jeff

Satisfaction in Program

Serramonte High-lites

With completion of the first year of the Jefferson Union High School District's innovative Medical Careers at Serramonte High School, instructor Nancy Kramer was able to feel much satisfaction in the development and expansion of the program.

Students were able to work and learn at Mary's Help Hospital all year and other community allied health facilities were added during the semester. These were Dr. Michael Patner's dental office, Skyline Veterinary Hospital, Mercy Ambulance Service, Duggan's Mortuary and Cerro Gardens Convalescent Hospital.

Interest in this course is growing with 150 students applying for enrollment next semester. The course will be expanded to accommodate 40 students as compared to the 25 who were able to take it the first year. Student interest is the prime factor in choosing students for the course, but it is balanced ethnically and academically so as to be representative of the school.

WORKING IN the community health facilities during the past school year had three main purposes:

(1) to orient the students to occupations in the health field so they can make appropriate career choices;

(2) to prepare the students for entry level job skills or entrepreneurial preparation;

(3) to enable the students to become wise consumers of health services.

Students became familiar with over 30 careers — learning the requirements, career tasks, salaries, and opportunities available. A general orientation during the first semester was followed by an in-depth exposure in student selected departments. The "real work" enabled the students to experience the entire work-role and facilities the learning of tasks and skills. Field experience was accompanied by lecture and theory at Serramonte High School.

STUDENT ENTHUSIASM in the participating departments was varied; some delighted in newly learned skills in such departments as EKG, radiology, and pharmacy; some were introduced to skills they knew little about, as in engineering and physical therapy; some gained more insight into individual differences, as in the mortuary, occupational therapy, the clinics and nursing departments; others explored areas of special interest, such as veterinary medicine and dentistry. All gained an appreciation for practical skills and humanitarian efforts.

Some of the highlights of the years' program for the group were assisting with ambulance calls, observing surgical procedures in the operating room, being introduced to mental health techniques and practices at Napa State Hospital, and participating in the Affirmative Action Program at Mary's Help Hospital.

THE RECEPTION of the students by the participating staffs has been warm and enthusiastic. It is anticipated that the continuation and expansion of the Medical Career Program in the fall will be meaningful and rewarding for students and staff alike.

'Barefoot' to
Be on Pacifica
Stage June 29

Good morning, good cooks. With summer almost here, and the prospects of picnics, trips to the beach, swimming lessons and other busy times, this is a good time to share some recipes that are quick and easy to prepare.

This first dish is an interesting combination of ground beef and the usual salad ingredients, enhanced with tangy French dressing.

TACO SALAD

1½ pounds ground beef
¼ cup chopped onion
French Dressing
½ teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon pepper
3 cups shredded lettuce
2 tomatoes, diced
½ cup radish slices
½ cup green onion slices
1 6-oz. package tortilla or corn chips
1 avocado, peeled, cubed
1 cup (4 oz.) shredded Sharp Natural Cheddar Cheese
½ cup pitted ripe olive slices
½ cup dairy sour cream

Brown the one and one-half pounds beef with the fourth cup onion; drain. Add one-fourth cup French Dressing and one-fourth teaspoon each salt and pepper; simmer 5 minutes. Combine the three cups lettuce, two diced tomatoes and fourth cup each radish and green onion slices, add enough dressing to moisten; toss lightly. Place the tortilla chips, avocado, one cup shredded cheese, half cup ripe olive slices and half cup sour cream in individual serving bowls.

For each salad, serve meat mixture over tortilla chips, top with lettuce mixture and avocado, cheese, olives and sour cream, as desired. 4 to 6 servings.

For those days when you're too busy to stop and shop, keep some canned goods on the shelf so you can whip up this tasty casserole.

CHINESE CASSEROLE

1 cup diced celery
1 can tuna
1 can bean sprouts
½ cup diced onion
1 can mushroom soup
1 can Chow Mein noodles
½ cup water
4 ounces sliced almonds (optional)

Combine the one cup celery, one can tuna, can bean sprouts, one-half cup diced onion, one can mushroom soup, one can Chow Mein noodles and one-fourth cup water. If you have sliced almonds, add them. Blend well and pour into large, lightly buttered casserole. Bake in 325-degree oven 45 to 55 minutes.

CORRECTION:
In last week's recipe for French Mustard Slices the amount of parsley needed is one-fourth cup.

Yoga Program
For Summer Is Announced

Louanne Heath

The Daly City Recreation Department announced an extensive summer yoga program under the instruction of Jorge Jauregui.

The classes are designed for students who are sixteen years of age and older. All classes will be held at Westmoor Park Clubhouse, 123 Edgemont Drive.

Daly City residents will be given preference for all classes and all registration will be taken on a first-come-first-serve basis.

To register, send name, address including zip code, daytime phone and fee to Daly City Recreation Department, 134 Hillside Blvd., Daly City, 94014.

Registration will not be taken at the class. Students should wear loose comfortable clothing with no buttons on the back. A mat or pad is needed for extra comfort.

That touch of Spring time things like parades, graduations and weddings! Adjourn committees, suspend operations organizations, adieu guild members, this is no time or conjure on corporate crises, balance books or plot programs, let us all scatter to taste the sea breeze, sniff flowers and relax on freshly mown lawns. The fall is soon enough for study sessions, planning meetings and fund raisers let us get about the business of enjoying spring and summer!

WESTLAKE'S Mrs. Murray H. Freedman was the program chairman at a recent gathering of the San Francisco Press Club and she succeeded in ob-through your closet and doing some sorting Friends Outside would like to encourage you to remember the continuing need for clothes for needy prisoners' families.

Currently in short supply in the FO clothes closet are all types of young men's clothes. Suits in sizes 38 to 42, pants with 30 to 32 inch waists and sweaters in all sizes.

Canned and dried foods are again running low and any contributions are welcomed in the office located at 3101 Nineteenth avenue.

Mrs. Charles Poggio reported to tablemates Mrs. Edward Hill, Mrs. Jay Rhoads, Mrs. Harry Roth, and Mrs. Addie Attell, that her son, Andrew, will graduate from the University of California this month and tour Europe during the summer.

Mrs. Hill was busy renewing old acquaintances after an absence of two years. Mrs. Donald Wilson was introducing her sister, Mrs. Florence Boer, who is here on a visit from Australia. Mrs. George Hidick announced that her husband has been transferred and the family will be moving to the East coast this summer.

The event was also a birthday celebration from Mrs. Jack Mihalovich who, incidentally, is graduating from San Francisco State University this week.

Other localities in the audience were Mrs. Eugene Crandall, Roy Wilson, Mrs. Ronald Chiappari, Mrs. Dennis Franco, Mrs. Arthur Colman, Mrs. June Roberts, Mrs. Helen Cannon, Mrs. Harriet Johnson, Mrs. Ann Bradbury, Mrs. Evan Purcell, Mrs. Selmar Monroe and Mr. and Mrs. Millard Smith.

Church School Sets Vacation

Vacation Church School will be held next week at the Broadmoor Presbyterian Church, 377 87th Street, Daly City.

All children and youth are invited whether attending this church or not. There are classes for those who are presently of kindergarten age through the sixth grade.

The dates are June 18-22, Monday through Friday, 9 to noon. There is a registration fee of $1 to defray expenses. There is a picnic day on Friday with the schools that are being held at the United Methodist and Westlake Lutheran churches.

Among the 15 Presbyterian teachers and helpers are Penny Manis, Chuck Barnes, Janine Robinson, Cathy Jonesen Marilyn Mattson, Sue Henry and Marilyn Fietz. The Rev. Herbert Tweedie is the local pastor.

Anti-Bayhill Group Files Referendum

Referendum petitions seeking to rescind council approval of the Bayhill shopping center were filed with San Bruno City Clerk Marie Redpath last week containing 3,038 signatures.

The move blunted an anti-petition mailing effort. Petition leaders charged that the mailing erroneously gave the impression that the city clerk was paying for the bulk mailing.

The filing, which was a week ahead of the June 13 deadline required 1,535 names of registered voters, was done so that a mailer by Citizens for Balanced Community Growth would be ineffective.

Mrs. Redpath said signature verification on the petitions, which call for rescinding an earlier 3-2 council approval of two 13-story office buildings at the Bayhill Shopping Center site, would begin immediately.

The mailer, which was sent to approximately 12,000 of the city's registered voters, contained a detachable postcard which used a bulk rate first class mail permit. The mailing was made by Western Empire District Marketing Company of South San Francisco. A spokesman at that firm said the cost was $9-a-thousand, plus $30 for use of the bulk rate permit.

On the one side of the card, the resident was asked to sign his name and address for the purpose of having his name removed from the petition he may have earlier signed.

The other side of the card, which showed the first class mailing permit, carried the address of the city clerk at city hall. Immediately to the left of that address were the words "postage will be paid by."

Response to the city clerk's office by irate residents receiving the mailer was immediate, continuous and caustic, according to Mrs. Redpath — despite the fact the callers were assured it was a mistake.

"We've been run ragged," said Mrs. Redpath. "Some (callers) are screaming and really rude," she said.

Meanwhile, Robert L. Hons, chairman of the Citizens for Balanced Community Growth, admitting responsibility for the mistake, was apologetic and immediately submitted a letter to the city clerk's office.

"Those words ('Postage will be paid by') appear as a layout error and they were neglected to be removed from the standard form for return postage," he said in the letter.

A spokesman at Brisbane Litho, which did the printing for $36, "but didn't set the type," said somebody did proof read it. "I'm not sure if it was the Bayhill agency or Mr. Hons." Hons said later that it was he who did the proof reading, calling it "an oversight."

Hons explained in his letter to the city clerk that "the city has no obligation to make any payment, nor was it ever intended to do so. We regret this error."

San Bruno Postmaster Don Ris-

so said Hons' group will have to pay 10 cents apiece for the returned postcards.

Some of those who worked for the referendum, however, see the mailing as detrimental in that it leaves the implication that the city clerk was not only sanctioning, but soliciting, the removal of names.

Petition carrier Les Kelting said that Hons' group ought to be required to send out another mailing, instead of just a letter to the city clerk, so that all those who received the first mailing will know the city is not paying the postage tab, nor in any way taking sides.

He further suggested that all who receive the original mailing, and are opposed to the two thirteen-story office buildings, ought to send their cards back — unsigned.

City Attorney Joe Galligan said that since the petitions have been filed with the city clerk, the receipt of postcards by the residents is a moot point.

According to law, no names can now be removed from the petitions, said Galligan.

He also said any possible legal action by those thought injured probably would be a moot point also, since there was no monetary damage.

Two of the three organizers of the petition drive — Terri Rasmussen and Gary Mondfrans — were too enthused to be immediately concerned about the mailing. Leonard Hauskens was not present for the filing.

"We could have had another 1,000 names if we had gone full time," said Mondfrans. "The people in SAN Bruno don't want a San Francisco (high rise) in SAN Bruno," he said.

Many of the 60 petition carriers who worked for signatures on the 171 petitions submitted to Mrs. Redpath were present and as equally joyous.

Several members of this Bayhill Referendum Committee, who were seasoned petition carriers, said response to the petition was tremendous. Sylvia Gregory said that four out of five persons she contacted signed the petition.

One observation that was made was that the number of signatures being claimed totals more than the number of votes any of the three council members who approved the two received 2,833 votes.

13-story buildings received in their election to the council.

'Women's Lib' and the Jailhouse

Women's lib may soon arrive at the San Mateo County jail in Redwood City.

The Board of Supervisors decided last week they would go for equal treatment of sentenced women prisoners by making available to them alternatives now available only to male prisoners.

"We have no correctional program for women at the present time," County Manager M. D. Tarsches told the Supervisors. "We have work-furlough for men, we have an honor camp for men," he said.

"We are acutely aware of this. It has been pointed out to us for some time," Tarsches said.

"This program is long overdue," said Supervisor Jean Fassler.

By unanimous vote, Supervisors agreed to submit a $195,000 grant application to the California Council on Criminal Justice to attempt to fund the proposed alternative project.

Chief Probation Officer Loren Beckley said the plan is to rent a residence for 20 women, to be open 24 hours a day, seven days a week where most of the women presently serving their sentences in the jail could live instead.

Here they would receive intensive counseling and assistance with a goal of reducing their repeat rate by at least 40 per cent, Beckley said.

There could be some opportunity for a work-furlough program functioning out of this program, allowing the women to go out to work to support themselves and their families while serving their time, Beckley said.

"We may have some recommendations later for unse-enced females (those still awaiting trial), so that the jail may become a holding facility for men only," Tarsches added.

Beckley said the program would not begin before October 1, if funded. County share of the cost would be $54,000, which Tarsches said would probably be offset by savings in the Sheriff's job budget.

THE NUMBER ONE issue of the day — land use planning — got an in-depth policy airing before Supervisors this week by members of the county-wide Council of the League of Women Voters.

Linda Craig, council chairman, called for "a quality human environment for County residents including an equal emphasis on social, environmental, and economic concerns."

It is the League's policy, she said, to support measures to direct growth, to control the effects of transportation facilities, to maintain unique natural resources, to control the use of hazardous areas, and to meet the housing and social needs of all citizens.

"Transportation should fit within the established land use plan, and not the reverse," she emphasized.

She said members of the three County Leagues struggled with the problem of needed roads which would stimulate growth, particularly on the Coastside, and with the unwanted impacts of rapid transit.

Members concluded that there had to be strong control of land use by local governments, concentration of higher densities along the urban corridor, and exploitation by local governments of rising land values along any new transportation routes.

"We view open space lands as a vital use of land — not just as a holding zone for future development," a sharp departure from past attitudes, Mrs. Craig said.

"We will strongly support the preservation of San Francisco Bay and its shoreline, as well as the general goals of the Coastal Commission," she added.

Commenting on the need for more effective citizen participation in land use policy decisions, Mrs. Craig said more readily accessible information on existing plans is needed as well as greater opportunity for working within the government structure.

"It did not seem that the Regional Planning Committee subcommittees or the Environmental Quality Coordinating Council were sufficiently close to the decision makers to be meaningful," she said.

The 165 members who participated in the land use study agreed there should be some control or direction of overall county growth. They supported the concept of phasing growth, tossed a bouquet to the work of the San Mateo County Development Association, but stressed new job activity should benefit present residents and not stimulate new immigration.

On housing, members were reluctant to insist that low-moderate income housing be located within every city. Mrs. Craig reported. They preferred instead to urge that each jurisdiction assume some responsibility in the area of housing, perhaps in the form of financial assistance.

"We will support efforts to rehabilitate existing housing, and to avoid any public project that would remove lower-priced housing units unless an equal number of equivalent replacement units have been provided," Mrs. Craig said.

Most of the board members indicated they supported the league's outlined land use policies, but pointed out it was a different kettle of fish when the time came to implement various policies.

The Air Pollution Control Board for example, chairman Robert St. Clair pointed out, would oppose higher densities along a rapid transit corridor because they would affect air quality.

And how, Supervisor James V. Fitzgerald asked, does each city in the county take their fair share of low-income housing?

THE COUNTY COUNCIL of Mayors has voted to recommend that the Board of Supervisors assume total responsibility for assessments of the Bay Area Sewer Services Agency.

A letter from James M. Smith, council secretary, reported that the mayor's action was taken because San Mateo County is the only agency capable of taxing San Francisco International Airport as a substantial waste discharger.

In other action, the mayors sought board support of a resolution strongly urging Governor Reagan to veto the reapportionment proposal endorsed by the State Assembly.

"Gerrymandering is repugnant," the resolution states. The proposal divides San Mateo County into four Assembly districts splitting six cities: Santa Clara County is divided into 11 districts, politically fragmenting any number of communities, all for the purpose of protecting some incumbent seats in the State Legislature.

Dairy Month

June is national dairy month; so let us pause to salute milk, man's oldest food: latte, lait, lacteo, chicke, mojika. Abraham served it to the three divine beings who appeared to him at Hebron. Joel dreamed of a promised land with milk flowing from the hills.

So many foods are made from milk, a venerable sage called the cows that produced it, "God's jolly cafeteria." Think of them: ice cream, cheese, butter, yogurt, custards, soups, and sauces.

Ever try cold buttermilk soup? Take 1½ pounds of cooked and chopped shrimps, ½ medium cucumber finely chopped, 1 tablespoon of minced fresh dill, 1 tablespoon of prepared mustard, 1 teaspoon of salt, 1 teaspoon of sugar, 1 quart of buttermilk. Mix together the shrimps, cucumber, and seasonings, then stir in the buttermilk and chill thoroughly. This recipe makes six servings.

IT TAKES A QUART of milk to make an onion soup that has been called the king of soups. Martha Washington served it to her famous husband and their guests. It takes 1—of half and half (milk and cream) to make New England Clam Chowder, a dish proclaimed as deserving the acclaim of every New Englander worth his independence. Without the milk and cream, the concoction becomes Manhattan Cowder, a dish so odious to Down-Easters that the legislature in the State of Maine considered outlawing it forever.

The recipes for clam chowder and onion soup may be found in the "American Heritage Cookbook." Here is a volume that combines recipes with a history of American eating and drinking. Excellent illustrations add to the joy of using the book. For these reasons it has been called a delightful and eye-catching blend of text and illustrations.

A section in the "American Heritage Cookbook" entitled, "Ice Cream," brings us back to dairy products. Ice cream is believed to have originated in China 3,000 years ago and brought to the West by Marco Polo. In America it has reached its greatest popularity with 17,800,000 pounds consumed yearly.

While vanilla ice cream is still the all-American favorite, its position is challenged by many other flavors. "Use your imagination," writes Carolyn Anderson to people who create home-made ice cream, "Add fruits, nuts, and flavorings to make your own concoction."

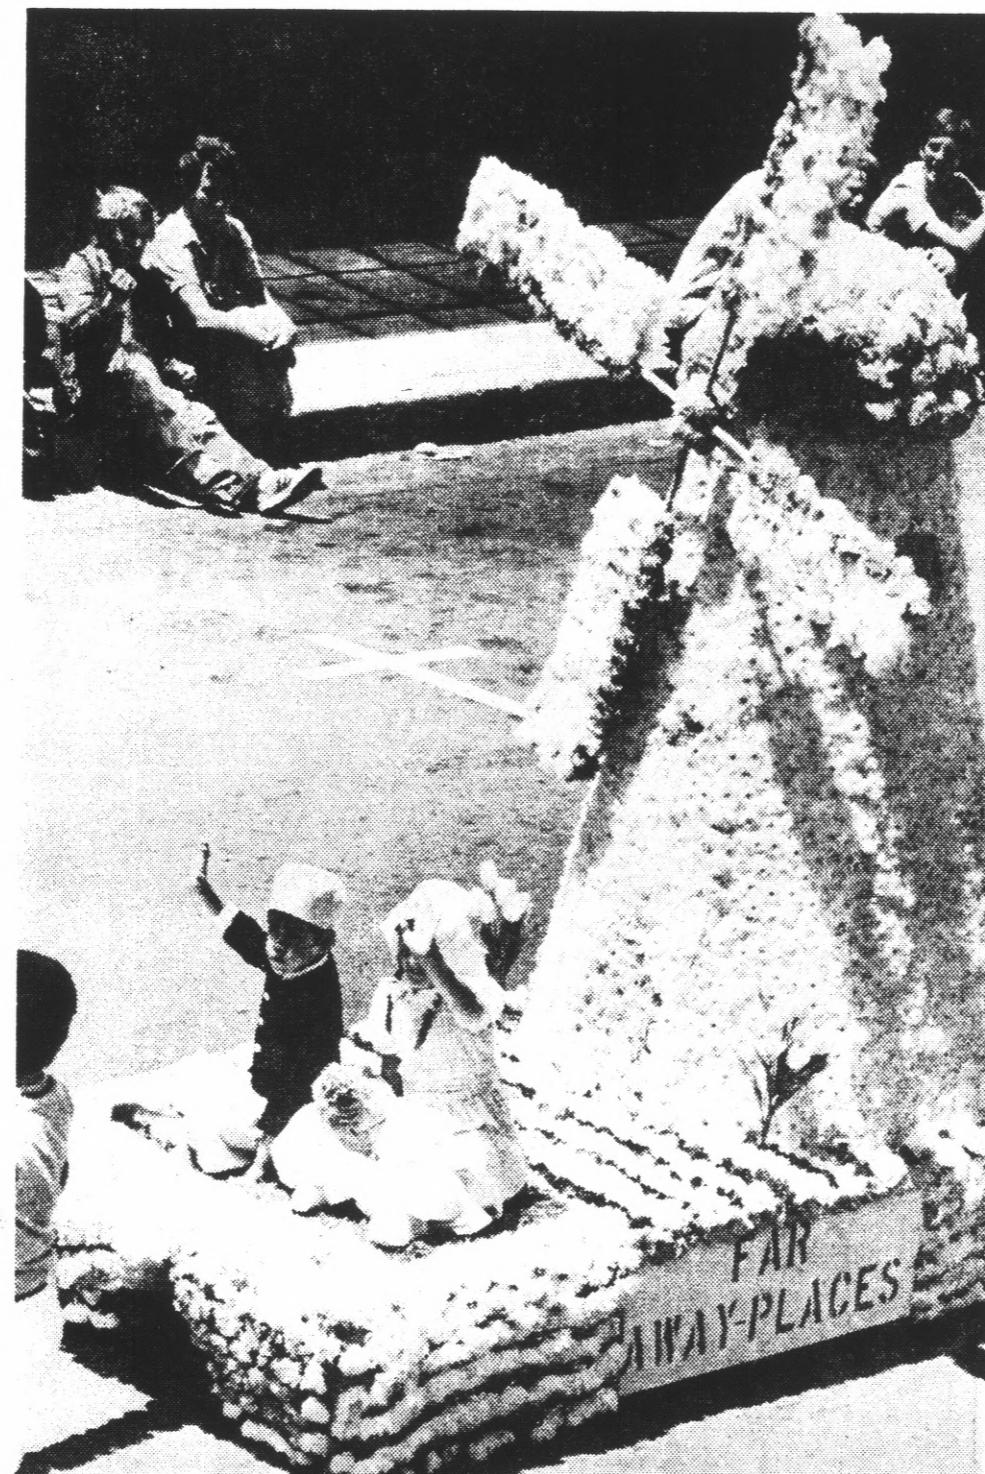

TO HELP YOU WITH delightful flavors, how about flower flavored ice cream with jasmine and jonquil petals and orange flower water: Ms. Anderson calls it the "world's most exotic ice cream." For other flavors that are different, try applesauce ice cream or apricot almond, or avocado flavor or barefoot vanilla or brandy honey. Ms. Anderson's, "The Complete Book of Homemade Ice Cream, Milk Sherbet and Sherbet," has 77 recipes for ice creams from almond flavor to tutti-frutti; from cucumber to pink peppermint; from old-fashioned vanilla to pistachio. Ah, what a book — dedicated to ice cream fanciers everywhere!

So this is national dairy month. Enjoy the good things that come from milk, the world's oldest and most natural food.

Sen. Ervin's Circus Will Not Be Halted

No way. There is no way that Senator Ervin and his center ring of the circus is going to be halted.

Archibald Cox has asked that the hearings be stopped. Secretary of the Interior Rogers Morton and others also have called for their end. They go on, however, and will continue to the last roll of film and pot of ink.

So the question is not whether the hearings will end, but whether they will be fairly conducted. It must be admitted that this senatorial investigation is fair when compared with others of its kind.

For one thing, the committee has resisted the practice of asking questions of a witness they know will refuse to testify.

For another, Senator Ervin has conducted himself more as an impartial arbiter than as a prosecutor. Finally, the committee has allowed concerned parties to submit written questions which have, in amended form, been asked of witnesses.

Unfortunately, however, there is a defect in the proceedings that casts an unnecessary cloud over its actions. This flaw results, in part, from the make-up of this committee, in part from the nature of congressional investigations, and in part from the failure of the administration to demand certain traditional and fundamental American rights.

The hearings must be recognized as the most momentous in our history. They amount to a kind of ad hoc pre-impeachment procedure, with widespread influence on national attitudes and prejudices. What is going on in the crowded senatorial chambers is creating a set of public opinion from which all else will follow.

Later judicial proceedings may well fail to return to the basic facts developed by the committee. In some cases defendants will plead guilty, or trials will be avoided because of procedural rulings. Some of the testimony, e.g., hearsay and nonprofessional opinion evidence adduced at the hearings will not be admissible in court. In some of the cases, the telling points may be avoided by both sides for tactical reasons. And finally, and in any event, the subsequent trials will never receive the widespread attention given Senator Ervin's center ring extravaganza.

Thus, while it must be conceded that these hearings are fairer than many previous congressional inquiries, they fall short of the desired mark. And any unfairness in these proceedings can work monstrous mischief.

The problem is this. The administration is under serious attack, but has no hand in what is happening. It cannot affect its own fate, and is deprived of the opportunity of confronting witnesses who could do it mortal harm.

It seems to this observer that the administration should claim a very fundamental right, that of confrontation and cross examination. The President should demand that an attorney of his choosing be attached to this most extraordinary of all committees for the sole purpose of asking questions of witnesses. The presence of such counsel would allow all facts to be developed, and could make certain that public impressions could be set in balance at the very moment of their creation.

Consider, for a moment, a line of questioning that might have been directed to James McCord under competent cross examination. (Answers are surmised, but appear probable.)

Q: Mr. McCord, you have A: (Righteously) Certainly not.

Q: Is it possible that some one, perhaps one of the men who assisted you in planning this bungled venture, wanted to have you and your group apprehended?

A: Yes.

Q: Mr. McCord, did you try to get caught that night?

A: (Righteously) Certainly

TV WRITERS STRIKE
DAMPENS PRESS VISIT

LOS ANGELES — This is the week when 70 television editors from around the nation and Canada start their annual meetings in this, the capital of what is left of the entertainment world.

For the next two and a half weeks we will be interviewing stars by the bushel, will be shunted by bus from one star's home to another, will talk to producers and network executives. This is all being done to prepare the television press of the nation for the upcoming fall season. There is only one problem: nobody seems to know for sure when the fall season will actually get underway.

A strike of television and screen writers has brought production to an almost complete standstill. The three major television producers, Universal, 20th Century-Fox, and Warner Brothers are all strike bound. Some of the independent producers like MTM (Mary Tyler Moore Productions) have already signed separate agreements with the unions, but the three major unions are still far from signing.

As a result NBC has already postponed the start of the new season until late September. It appears that CBS may have to do the same thing. ABC has a more serious problem. It must start its "Monday Night Football Games" on September 10, and would like to use that week to kick off the new season. However, if the strike here continues for the next three or four weeks, ABC will probably have to announce a delay, and start those series available that week, continuing reruns on the other series until the film companies can produce episodes.

ONE OF THE BIGGEST surprises this week in the industry has been the announcement that Roger Grimsby has signed a new contract to be ABC's number one man in New York. Up until a week or so ago, Grimsby was reported to be definitely on his way to WNBC New York, the NBC network's flagship station. We have been told the former San Francisco newsman got himself quite a substantial increase in pay.

THE ANNOUNCEMENT last week that KTVU would be carrying "America" next fall has been enlarged upon. The Hughes Network, which is basically a sports network, will distribute the series during an early time slot on Sunday night. Xerox will still be around to sponsor the series which features Alastair Cooke.

LOOK FOR ANOTHER gigantic payola scandal to involve a number of U.S. radio stations and several major record companies. Already there has been a major shake up at Columbia Records, with the top officials having been dismissed, and one Clive Davis, head of the CBS Record group, being sued by the network for unauthorized use of funds.

The scandal actually started in London where a number of BBC radio disk jockeys have been suspended while an investigation has been going on into alleged payola. The trail led back to Holland, New York, Chicago, and Los Angeles.

One spokesman for the industry has claimed that the information which will be revealed as the investigation rolls along will make the payola scandals of 15 years ago look like amateur night at the Bijou.

The Public Voice

Editor, The Post:
Gentlemen, it is about time we throw in the sponge. We should admit we've been complete failures, but let us have one more try at saving civilization by giving the girls a chance. Why? They handle our paychecks, raise our kids, keep the house orderly, and see that we have something in retirement.

Looking at the record — Eisenhower, Kennedy, Johnson, Nixon, Brown, Reagan — what have they actually done to alleviate our problems? Nothing, absolutely nothing. As a matter of fact they have compounded our problems.

As a suggestion, and I am sure Southern California will gladly go along with it, we should promote Jean Fassler as our next governor, as I am sure she best represents a non partisan and can work very well with all parties — Democrats, Republicans, and groups with problems to be solved. Let us remember, we all have problems — let Jean Fassler help us solve them.

Base Stealing is a Special Art by Itself

The subject today is base stealing . . . Not base running, because the two aren't necessarily synonymous.

A good base runner isn't necessarily a good base stealer, nor is a good base stealer necessarily a good base runner. Some good base runners don't steal because they are not swift. Others don't because of the type of baseball their manager plays, which is often dictated by what kind of a roster the manager's inherited.

Now, the Yankees of old were almost always good base runners, but seldom stole, because a steal would advance them only one base, and a home run could advance them up to three bases without having to slide.

BY THE SAME token, players who steal a lot of bases sometimes also get picked off base a lot, or try too often for the extra base and are thrown out, breaking up a rally, or often get thrown out trying to steal. In 1914, for example, Miller Huggins, playing for the Cardinals, was one of the leading base stealers in the league, as he pilfered 32 sacks. But he was caught stealing 36 times. That is not good base running.

And then there was Joe DiMaggio, who never stole more than six bases in any one season in his major league career, but who was considered one of the best base runners of his time. Of course, Joe didn't HAVE to steal, being in the middle of that fabled Yankee lineup. But he was a good baserunner because he was smart and alert and a wonderful judge of his own speed and of opposing arms and mentalities. He rarely was picked off base, always went from first to third on a single if it was at all possible, and in short just never pulled a boner on the base paths. That's base running.

Theoretically, it is possible to be relatively slow afoot and still be a good base runner. Possibly the best asset a base runner can have, in fact, is the ability to properly judge his speed; to know his own limits. That kind of base runner is often more valuable over a long season, than a swift man who doesn't know or won't face up to his limits, and thus gets thrown out six times during the year at home plate on shallow flies to the outfield, negating the possibility of the next man having a crack at knocking him in. The slow but smart runner would hold the bag, and give the next man that chance to bring him in.

But we have digressed terribly. We were writing of base stealing, and what brought this up is the moaning some fans did in 1962 when Maury Wills stole 104 bases to break Ty Cobb's all-time record 96. (Probably the same people who blanch at the thought of Hank Aaron breaking Babe Ruth's career homerun total.) "But Wills tried to steal so many," such fans cried, "he was bound to break the record." They even implied that Wills was out only for himself and didn't care whether the Dodgers won or lost.

FACT ONE is that anybody who has ever read anything about Cobb KNOWS that if there was ever one baseball player who cared more for his personal achievements than his team's, it was Cobb. Fact number two is that both the Dodgers and Detroit missed pennants by one game in the years their stars were making their steal records, which seems to indicate that perhaps the steals — whether intentional as aids to help the team win or not — did something for the respective teams. Fact number three is that Cobb tried to steal 134 times, while Wills tried only 117. Which means that Wills stole 88.9 percent of the times he tried — an excellent per cent mark — while Cobb made it only 71.7 percent of the times he tried — a very poor percentage. The 38 times he was caught stealing, in fact, is an all-time record.

In 1922, the fabled Max Carey stole an unbelievable 51 bases out of 53 attempts, a percentage of 36.2.

Two other high percentage stealers today seldom given credit for it are Bobby Bonds and Lou Brock, who are both right up around the 90 percent mark.

The greatest stealing feat of all time, though, is one with which you're sure to win a bar bet. Just ask who holds the record.

Big Gus went 1079 straight games not caught stealing in American League games and both league and major league play. Your foes will never guess out being caught stealing. It is our own local Gus Triandos, the Mission High, Baltimore, never attempted a steal in your life!

As the late Bugs Baer once said of a lead-footed base runner, "He had larceny in his heart, but his feet were honest."

EVENTUALLY we get around to everything. The year Wills stole those 104 bases and the Dodgers lost that pennant by one game, was also the year, of course, that the Giants won their last pennant, by beating the Dodgers in that now-famous play-off game. Just as it took us 11 years to realize the significance of Wills' 104 stolen bases, so it has taken us 11 years to realize how the Giants managed to win a pennant. In checking old records we discovered that the 1962 Giants set 17 team records (for the S.F. based team), almost all of them positive records, almost all of them offensive records. Following are the most significant of them:

In a slug fest, Longs Drugs put the Hornets to rest, 37-11. Everyone hit the ball for the drug men but Larry Ford was the leader with 4 home runs and 7 runs batted in. Another highlight was a stand-up triple by 6'6" catcher Bill Miller who got his 330 lbs. quickly around the bases.

In other games undefeated Golden Coach went into extra innings and finally beat the stubborn Tippy's team, 11-9. Bayshore Baptist also won by destroying Western Dental, 24-6.

D.C. Women's Slow Pitch Loop Opens

The Summer Women's Slow Pitch Softball League, sponsored by the Daily City Recreation Department, has opened its double round-robin play at Westlake Park.

Channing Fund started their season with an easy win over Byrd's Trucking, 21-10. Doreen Daneri and Sherry Garner led Channing Fund with one home run each followed closely by Claire Anderson and Karen Ward each connecting for a triple. Dora Muldrows of Byrd's Trucking managed a home run, but her team was unable to successfully defend themselves against the hard hitting women of Channing Fund. This game was not the traditional "pitcher's duel" since thirty-eight hits were made between the two teams.

The R.T. Women soundly polished off Tippy's with final score of 24-12. Marvis Hackett slammed in two home runs followed by Christina Redmond who connected for a homer in the fourth inning with two on base. The R.T. Women were given further power with Mary Lou Sunsin who went five for six times at bat and had three rbi's.

Jean Sunderland of Tippy's scored three runs with Pam Fisher and Vernelle Gomez each scoring two runs.

Play will continue for the next five Sundays at Westlake Park with starting time at 1 and 2:40 p.m. The public is welcome.

San Bruno Rec.

Supt. Retires

San Bruno Recreation Department Superintendent Mike Kiely has chosen to take early retirement from the city, effective September 14.

City Mgr. Gerald Minford told the council Monday night that Kiely had submitted a letter saying that he would be eligible and wanted to take early retirement at that time.

Kiely, 55, has been with the city since 1961.

Roadrunners Win DC Soccer Crown

Before an enthusiastic crowd of parents, relatives, friends and older club members the Roadrunners and the Sparks entries of the Westlake International Soccer Club played for the PAL Under 8 championship.

It was a memorable event under sunny skies on Ben Franklin playground. Both teams played aggressive soccer that saw almost instant switches from attack to defense as the battle swayed to and fro. Steve Murphy and Paul Newman guided the Roadrunners and Sparks, respectively, got plenty of action, with Paul Newman making the more spectacular saves while Steve Murphy handled the high lobs well.

Despite the Roadrunners having the advantage of the second year competitive experience represented by Mike Kennedy and Frank Wilsey, the Sparks weren't at all overawed.

The Roadrunners took the lead on a shot by Mike Ackrell, and the Sparks shortly after retaliated with a grounder by Nick Saschin. Starting in the second half the Roadrunners with good defensive clearances by Jimmy Dekalaita and Paul Incencias as well as good interceptions by centerhalf Hugo Gonzales exerted constant pressure. This resulted in many cornerkicks and close calls for the Sparks.

But it was only when Frank Wilsey at inside left was unguarded that he scored the winning goal for the Roadrunners from 18 years out.

The Sparks in the remaining minutes came back strongly with Donald Osuna failing on a penalty kick and a beautifully placed freekick by Mark Ackrell ending up in the outstretched hands of Steve Murphy.

The champion Roadrunners with a 4 win, no loss league record were represented by these

Extra Paving
For Runway
Is Approved

Two thousand feet of additional runway paving for San Francisco International Airport's main runway at an estimated cost of $3.4 millions, was approved for bidding yesterday by the city's Airport Commission.

Deputy Airports Manager Thomas Bertken explained that the runway paving will be on an area filled three or four years ago, and allowed to settle so that further soil movement is unlikely.

Airport Planner Dale Fearn called this "the second phase of a project which is one of the oldest in our expansion program."

The work is expected to take eight months, and to be 53 percent financed by the federal government.

Bertken told commissioners "this is one project our neighbors, South San Francisco, San Bruno and Foster City, have been asking us to proceed with."

He said the new runway paving will increase Runway 28-Right's total length to 11,870 feet. By allowing departing planes to start their northwest take-offs 21,170 feet farther away from South San Francisco, he said, the extension will result in jets being higher as they pass over those cities, and effectively less noisy.

Because the runway is farther into the Bay than the existing main runway, 28-Left, it will allow standing planes to make their descents to the bayside of Foster City, rather than over the edge of that community.

"This should be a great help to our noise abatement program," Bertken said.

When finished, the runway will become San Francisco International's main instrument landing point, and is expected to be used for hands-off "Category Three" all-weather landings as equipment is installed.

Airports Commissioners approved a bid calling for reconstruction of the Millbrae end of Runway 1-Right, and re-paving of a taxi-way at an estimated cost of $281,000.

They approved spending up to $97,000 for a photogrammetric survey of the airport, to be used during construction work.

Commissioners approved a personnel plan recommended by the City's Civil Service Commission, which eliminates the unfilled job of airport police captain and replaces it with airport police lieutenant. Deputy Director Mike Bagan said he would be requesting "four or five" lieutenants to lead the expanded airport security force.

S.S.F. Officer Reinstated

Over five months since he was fired, South San Francisco Police Officer Keith Fazackerley was ordered reinstated with all rights, privileges, benefits and back pay, at last week's meeting of the City Personnel Board.

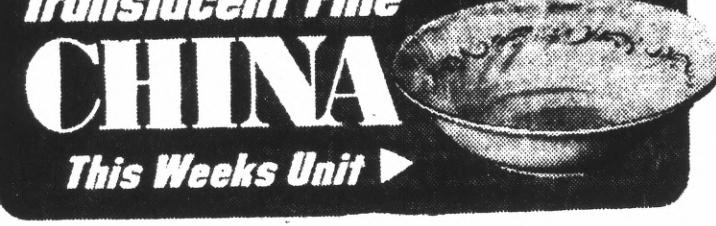

In contrast to its previous sessions on the subject — many of which lasted five to six hours at a time — the board convened briefly, and City Clerk Arthur Rodondi read the order signed by Board Chairman Richard Battaglia.

Fazackerley's firing took place on January 4 by Police Chief Sal Rosano, and concurred in by City Manager Gail Dreisbach. At the time, his fellow policemen protested the firing, and collected aid for Fazackerley to fight the firing. Attorney Tom Bocci was hired by Fazackerley to fight the firing in the series of Personnel Board hearings.

World of Wine

The Beginner Requires A Knowledgeable Guide

By Edward Oppenheimer

The world of wine: a complex, confusing and mysterious world that uses such terms as body, bouquet, aroma, tart and sweet.

These are terms used to describe wine by the wine connoisseur. He never tries to explain these terms to the uninitiated because he wants to keep the world of wine as a private sanctuary.

It is the object of this essay to help the uninitiated into the world of wine and to pass on whatever knowledge we possess to the connoisseur to help him in his purchasing and consumption of wine.

The first step is to find a shop that has a knowledgeable clerk or proprietor. You need to start your education by conferring with a person whose judgment you trust.

One criterion for discovering a wine shop that knows its business is to examine its selection. Does the store have at least 500 to 1,000 different wines? Does it stock wines not only from France, Germany and California but also from Austria, Switzerland, Australia, Spain and Hungary?

Does the merchandise look new, indicating a reasonable turnover? Are most of the wines, with the exception of jug wine, some whites, sherries and ports, laid down?

If your primary interest is in California wines does the shop have a number of the smaller wineries represented on its shelves?

After using these questions to establish a first impression of the shop, talk to the clerk or owner and put some more questions to him directly.

Does he appear to know and rank the California wineries? Is he familiar with the label designations of the various imports?

Ask what wines he would recommend with various dinner menus. Ask him where he would begin wine purchases, considering your budget, taste and knowledge. Then compare these answers with those of several other wine merchants.

This whole discussion about finding a reliable merchant is superfluous if all you drink or care to drink is jug wine. To a complete neophyte in the world of wine, we would advise avoiding the purchasing of red wines at the beginning of each type to start until you know what varieties you enjoy. Buy only wines that are vintage dated from 1969 to the present.

You are now launched upon the world of wine. Experiment with sweet and dry whites from California, Germany, Austria, Switzerland and the Alsation region of France. Buy only one bottle of each type to start until you know what varieties you enjoy. Buy only wines that are vintage dated from 1969 to the present.

Now that the weather's warming up, it's time to start storing the dried fruits you buy in the refrigerator. They'll maintain their quality better that way during the summer months, according to the U.S. Department of Agriculture.

Mousse of Sole Amandine is a perfectly elegant, souffle-like dish for your most discriminating guests. You can put it into the oven before they are due and let it bake while you all relax with an aperitif!

An easily made Mushroom-Almond Sauce is the finishing touch for this little masterpiece.

You might round out the menu with a raw spinach and romaine salad with vinaigrette dressing, hot crescent rolls and, for dessert, wedges of chilled melon splashed with kirsch.

is nearly frozen. Cut into small squares; place in electric blender, 1-3 at a time, and process until fish is finely chopped. Mix fish with almonds, cornstarch, egg yolks, cream, salt, sage, pepper and green onion. Whip egg whites until stiff and fold into fish mixture. Turn into well-buttered 5½- or 6-cup casserole or souffle dish. Place in pan with hot water in bottom; bake at 350 degrees for 45 minutes or until a pick inserted into center comes out dry. Serve hot with Mushroom-Almond Sauce.

1/2 cup dry white wine
1 tablespoon finely chopped fresh or freeze-dried chives

To turn Mayfair into a true discount supermarket, we cut our prices as low as we could cut them and still stay in business.

To do that, something had to go—and it was trading stamps.

This was not an easy decision for us to make.

However, when you see how low our new discount prices are, we think you'll agree that the money you'll now save at Mayfair more than makes up for dropping stamps.

AND, Mayfair gives you extra savings this week!

Council Plans Session On Study of Sugarloaf

The Stanford Business School Urban Management Program, Sugarloaf report will be the subject of a special San Mateo City Council study session in July. The date is to be set.

In commenting on the study Deputy Mayor Floyd Welch requested the city's appreciation be expressed to the university's research group.

Councilman John J. Murray, who had earlier chucked over the inclusion of a comment in the study, suggested it might have blighted the report's professionalism.

The comment was a verbatim quote from a citizen questioned in a survey conducted by the study team and was less than flattering of Councilman Murray.

He also said it was too bad the study group did not hold up the report until after the April 17 city election which might well have redirected some of the report's recommendations.

The reference was to the possible acquisition of Sugarloaf as a park if there was an indication of the citizen's approval. A proposal to raise city taxes 10 cents a year for 10 years to buy

DAVID M. BRUDNEY of Foster City has been named vice president of marketing of Fred Harvey, Brisbane-based hotel, restaurant and resort company. He was formerly director of sales for the Hyatt Union Square Hotel, San Francisco.

Mental Health Program 'Shambles,'

By JOHN HORGAN

A San Mateo psychiatrist says the mental health program in San Mateo County is in a state of almost complete shambles.

Dr. Philip Derbin, talking during an interview in Foster City last week, believes that a combination of factors have produced near chaotic results in the mental health field in this area.

Derbin, who recently resigned from a position with the psychiatric unit at Peninsula Hospital in Burlingame, said conditions are so bad in this county that "someone is going to be seriously hurt."

He cites a number of reasons why he feels this way. Among those reasons are:

The fact that the state has swiftly moved to close its mental hospitals and to cut back on funding generally in the mental health realm.

The belief that the psychiatric ward (2N) at Chope Community Hospital in San Mateo is sadly inadequate because it is being used for two very distinct and separate functions which necessarily conflict.

The feeling that 2N may well be phased out soon as part of a covert drive by certain county health authorities to close down the entire hospital.

The belief that the administrators of the county's mental health program are doing a poor job. In that regard, he says that Dr. John Vister, deputy program director of mental health services division, ought to resign.

The fact that too many psychiatrists, like himself, who are in private practice in this county fail to speak out and protest.

The fact that the state has moved to close its mental hospitals and to cut back on funding generally in the mental health realm.

The belief that the psychiatric ward (2N) at Chope Community Hospital in San Mateo is both open and closed. There are some locked rooms for violent patients and these detract from the rest of the program there.

Derbin blames Visher for much of this problem. Derbin claimed that Visher, along with Dr. George Pickett, the county's director of health and welfare, has failed to respond to the reported crisis at Chope.

In a letter to a fellow psychiatrist, Derbin points out that the former director of 2N, Avrum Pastor, has resigned because of this situation. "Avrum Pastor has resigned from directorship of 2N because he feels the plan foolish," Derbin wrote.

"Ward 2N is in a near state of collapse and currently negotiations are in process to contract services with Sequoia (Hospital) psychiatrist unit and emergency room. It is the plan of Visher and Pickett to dump mental health into the private areas."

Mrs. Lim screamed and the suspect fled to the patio, and vanished.

The intruder was described as five feet, seven inches, 140 pounds, slender, smooth complexion, small head, black hair covered by pullover cap, round cheeks, narrow shoulders, wearing a blue zip up cotton jacket. Total loss exceeded $1,000.

Visher replied to some of Derbin's charges and said, "Chope is not deficient. If a patient remains violent he is sent to Napa for further care." Visher termed Derbin's remarks as exaggerated.

He did concede that, "There could be an unfortunate accident." But, he pointed out, "you can't just lock everyone up."

He added that he and others in county administration have spoken out in Sacramento to get the state to modify its shutdown of state hospitals.

"It's not fair to say that we here don't push," Visher stated.

Derbin said many patients who once were treated at the large state hospitals now come to places like Chope where they can't be treated adequately. "We don't have the right programs for them," he offered.

He recommended that the state cease closing its hospitals for at least a period of time so that local facilities can adjust to the new local needs.

Derbin worked for the county for about two years after he came to the Bay Area in 1969. He is originally from the Los Angeles area.

He is now in private practice.

Ring Theft In San Mateo

A cat burglar took a $600 jade ring and other items while he was asleep. Gaink Lim of the 700 block of Indian Street told San Mateo police.

Lim said he and his wife heard a noise at 5:55 a.m. and sat up to see a male adult standing next to the dresser, going through a drawer.

Mrs. Lim screamed and the suspect fled to the patio, and vanished.

The intruder was described as five feet, seven inches, 140 pounds, slender, smooth complexion, small head, black hair covered by pullover cap, round cheeks, narrow shoulders, wearing a blue zip up cotton jacket. Total loss exceeded $1,000.

S.M. Church Ransacked

Burglars ransacked the St. George Presbyterian Church at 25 South Humboldt Street, San Mateo police reported.

The Rev. Thomas W. Grubbs, minister, told police that when he arrived at the church, he found his office door standing open.

Foreign coins had been strewn about the floor; a drawer had been removed and placed atop his desk, and another drawer pried open. Letters containing stamps had been torn open and the stamps strewn about.

Further investigation shown attempts to gouge out a lock and the bolt forced in another room, and several rooms ransacked. Missing were a tape recorder, microphone and amplifying equipment, a projector and sound box and a check. Total loss exceeded $935 plus damage.
